Christine Rebet at LACE

When

September 13 - November 6, 2016

Where

LACE
6522 Hollywood Boulevard
Los Angeles, CA 90028

Opening reception September 13t, 2016 | 7:30-10:00 PM | Los Angeles Exposition Park. 'DISSENT: What they fear is the light' is a group exhibition that explores the changing understanding of privacy and control in a world inundated with surveillance and oversharing and questions issues of visibility and invisibility.

29 years after LACE's seminal 1987 exhibition SURVEILLANCE which considered questions of privacy, constitutional rights and access around uses of technology, DISSENT reopens the debate and explores the new political approach to surveillance, centered around terror and security.

DISSENT features newly commissioned works by MPA and Jimena Sarno and works by French artist Christine Rebet as well as by Laura Aguilar, Coco Fusco, Metahaven and Sondra Perry.

About Christine Rebet

Christine Rebet, born in Lyon, France, received her MFA from Columbia University and her BA (Hons) from Central Saint Martins School of Art and Design, London. Her work is based on drawing and develops into forms ranging from animation to the environment, installations and performance art. At the heart of her work is the elaboration of historical traumas in the context of a personal reinterpretation and a consequent reanimation. Rebet has exhibited and held performances in various international contexts including in New York, Los Angeles, Paris, Rome, Zurich, Tokyo and Singapore.
